Personnel Post Is Filled; Program Evaluation Due

By Karen L. Day

The School Committee voted in favor of Mary French's election to Pupil Personnel Administrator at their Tuesday night meeting. The vote was unanimous, with Committeeman Donald Robb absent.

At the outset of the discussion of Chapter 766, Mary French made a presentation to the committee and concerned parents. Committee member David Birnbach had requested information regarding the process by which parents who have individual problems with their child's program or where the program is given, may have their concerns addressed.

French not only presented this information, which included mediation and appeals processes, but also included an explanation of the the inter-agency resolution process, by which various agencies involved with financing a program may have their differences of opinion solved.

According to French, some cases may take up to six weeks to settle, because of a vast caseload mediators often carry. She also commented that she agreed with Birnbach that some children get caught up in the process, and the state's Office for Children can deem some situations "emergency cases."

Until last year, Chapter 766 was in violation of Federal regulations, in that it required parents to at least participate in the mediation phase which consists of a meeting with the school team, before moving into the hearing process. French commented that it has since been changed to coincide with federal requirements, and that parents may choose to go directly into the hearing process at any time.

When the presentation was completed, Committeeman Richard Neal presented a motion to completely evaluate Chapter 766 programs and processes in Andover. This would be done by a group appointed by the committee that would include two members of the school committee, two members of the school administration, two parents of children involved in the program and one uninvolved person chosen by the other six. This evaluation would be expected to be complete in June.

Neal stressed that the evaluation was not simply to find problems with the program. He requested information regarding possible future programs, good programs that should be reinforced, compliance with regulations, interraction with other agencies in the state, and proposed program improvements.

Susan Poore, another committee member, commented that although this proposed group would not have the responsibility of settling individual's problems with the program, that general concerns should be put in writing for the group, thus giving them some guidance in finding out where some problems may be found.

When James E. Fox, 50 Walnut Ave., asked why the committee was "honing in on this program" since he saw no real problems, Neal answered that evaluation is nothing new, that the committee is constantly examining one program or another.

Committee Chairman Michael Giammusso commented that he would be surprised if the group came back in June stating that the program is perfect as is, and that this would simply be an "orderly look" at the good and bad.

Pam Woodroffe, 32 Cross St., asked if an annual audit of the program, which is done by the state Department of Educa-

McQuade To Talk On Drinking Water

Public Works Director Robert McQuade will discuss Andover's use of the Merrimack River for drinking water at a noon picnic on the Merrimack.

"All citizens are invited to hear Mr. McQuade," notes Jean Salazar, president of the League of Women Voters of Andover, which has arranged the event. "He is knowledgeable about the water situation throughout the Merrimack Valley. Come and bring your picnic lunch and your questions."

The program will begin at 12 noon at the Fish Brook Pumping Station, where Andover taps the Merrimack River for water, at the end of Brundrett Road off River Road, next to Hewlett-Packard.

Debby Moggio, chairman of the local league's natural resources committee, said that McQuade's talk should be of interest to individual citizens and business people. It is the Andover league's contribution to the nation's observance of Coast Week to focus attention on the importance of America's remarkable coastlines and water resources. Rain date is the following day, Friday, Oct. 3.

Historians Plan Family Festival

By Virginia Lopez Begg

The fragrance of new-pressed apple cider will mingle with the scarlet and gold of autumn leaves as the Andover Historical Society conjures up the New England of 1830 at its annual Family Festival Sunday, Oct. 5, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the society's headquarters, the Amos Blanchard House, 97 Main St.

The public is welcome. There is a nominal admission charge for non-members.

As Peter O'Leary presses the season's apple harvest into cider in the yard, visitors can sample the drink that is enjoyed as a seasonal treat today, but was once consumed morning, noon and night by old and young alike.

Guests are then invited to explore the barn musuem where interpreters will help them experience a bit of life in the early 19th century.

How did residents of Andover put out fires before they had running water? On Family Day, visitors can handle the very equipment used here 150 years ago and discover how it worked.

Book printing will also be demonstrated. Andover was once the home of the renowned Andover Theological Seminary now located in Cambridge, as well as Phillips Academy and boasted many learned citizens as a result. The presence of a book printer, Timothy Flagg, added to the town's scholarly lustre and on Family Day, children and adults can help bind a book the old-fashioned way.

Most people in Andover in 1830 were part of the farming community, however, and visitors to the historical society can role-play as farmers or shopkeepers in a barter economy. The barn's large collection of antique farm and household implements also invites viewers to play guess-what-this-is-for.

The society's new slide-tape show, "Andover: Circa 1830," will presented inside the Amos Blanchard house. The show illustrates how seemingly abstract issues of politics and religion, economics and education affected the everyday life of ordinary people.

Visitors can then tour the house's restored rooms, led by traned guides. Many of the articles on display were generously donated by local residents to preserve them for the enjoyment and education of the larger community. The tour, however, emphasizes the lives of the people lived in the house rather than just a collection of antiques.

Chapter Plans Banquet, Auction

The second annual banquet and auction of the Shawsheen chapter of Ducks Unlimited will be held Saturday, Sept. 27, at the North Andover Knights of Columbus at 6 p.m. The evening will include dinner, raffles, door prizes and a grand finale auction. Andovers Join In Household Hazardous Waste Collection

Saturday, Oct. 4, will mark the initiation of the first ever regional approach to solving a significant health and safety problem for Andover and North Andover. The problem is one that many residents are not even aware of—the improper disposal of household hazardous wastes.

"Pouring cleaning solvents down the drain, putting oil-based paints out for regular trash collction or dumping spent motor oil in woods or wetlands endangers public health," says Everett Penney, Andover health director. "Additionally," says North Andover Fire Chief William Dolan, "improper storage of these materials leads to a serious safety problem for not only homeowners, but fire fighting personnel."

Wescott Issues Challenge

Republican Bob Wescott, candidate for State Representative in the 17th Essex (Andover and Lawrence) District, issued a call for weekly debates on the "serious issues that divide us" to Mrs. Susan Tucker, the incumbent Democratic Representative.

Citing Tucker's obligation "to expose (her) record to the people who pay (her) salary," Wescott suggested that debates be held each Sunday evening in locations alternately selected by each campaign.

"We should never forget that the government belongs to the people and not to any party or administration," Wescott stated. "The voters have a right to make an informed decision in November. We (the candidates) have a duty to state our positions and defend our actions publicly and openly."

An answer is expected from the Tucker campaign shortly.

Academy Bans Smoking

The faculty of Phillips Academy at Andover announced recently a new policy which will ban smoking among students, beginning with the 1986-87 academic year. An overwhelming majority of the entire faculty of more than 200 voted to reverse a long-standing tradition at Phillips Academy which allowed students with parental permission to smoke in designated areas.

Donald McNemar, headmaster, announced the results of the vote which was taken at the school's closing faculty meeting in June. "The faculty decided the school should take the lead on the issue of smoking. One very clear side of the issue is safety: two dormitory fires during the past year, which resulted in damage only to property, have made us all extremely aware of the danger involved," McNemar said. "In addition, there has been growing sentiment that the academy should not be in a position which in any way endorses a practice which has been demonstrated to be seriously detrimental to health.'

He said the faculty voted to phase in the smoking ban through a one-year transition period beginning this fall. During that transition, only students who already have parental permission to smoke will be allowed to continue, although they will receive counseling on how to quit; new students will not be allowed to smoke at all.

McNemar said the school's literature will in the future outline the new policy and suggest that prospective students "who feel strongly about the need to smoke may wish to consider other schools."

Open House Enjoyed

Hundreds of Andover residents took advantage of a once-a-year opportunity and toured the Andover Post Office during their annual Open House last Saturday. In addition to the tour, the open house featured clowns and balloons, entertainment, representatives of a number of community organization, including the Armed Forces, the Andover police department and the Methuen police department featuring their "Fuzz Bug" police car. Observers were also treated to a unique display of the artistic power of the postage stamp-a collection of artworks created by Springfield artist Jim Butman from thousands of postage stamps. Photos clockwise from upper left: The Peikin brothers, Danny, seven, Mark, ten, and Eric, three, take a good look at the information and samples of illegal and hazardous drugs on display in the Andover police crime prevention bus; Mrs. David Darling, a local artist, admirers the art work of Jim Butman; seven-year-old Christopher Logan stops to talk to McGruff, the Crime Prevention Dog, Mailman Bernie Feeney and the Postal Express Mail Bald Eagle as he leaves the open house; Jay-O the clown talks to Tobi-Ellen Cutler, three-years-old.

West Creates Western Hemisphere Mural

Although showers soaked the ground overnight and a light drizzle continued to fall on and off as school opened, three sixth grade classes at the West Elementary decided to do battle with mother nature and paint their 50-foot mural of the Western Hemisphere as scheduled on the pavement in front of the school. Armed with packages of paper towels used to keep the wet paint of one country from bleeding into another, the students worked against time as dark clouds threatened to release a downpour, which would flood their colorful countries. As they completed their project with the final touches, needless to say, a heavy rain consisting of large drops fell on the Western Hemisphere project forcing the students to cover their mural with plastic and anything waterproof. Hoping the paint had anough time to start drying before the shower and the aid of the covering, the students can claim a close victory over mother nature and remember this unique lesson in Social Studies. Story on page 16. Photos clockwise from upper left: Jenny Chantland paints within the paper towels trying to keep the paints separated; Social Studies teacher, Helen Caplan, assists with brush in hand as a map of the Hemisphere is used as guidance; Andrew Frishman applies the body of water around the countries.

Headmaster Welcomes New Students

Phillips Academy began its 209th academic year last week with 72 new local boys and girls matriculating as day students among an international student body of 1,214. Thanks to an increased financial aid budget, the school's admission office was able to select 445 new students from more than 2,700 applications without reference to the family's financial status. As part of the orientation for new students, Headmaster Donald W. McNemar welcomed each one personally.

Forth-eight new students from Andover join other day students from the towns of North Andover, Lawrence, Methuen and North Reading.

This year's new students include five from the People's Republic of China, Andover's first black student from South Africa and representatives of 17 other countries.

In keeping with Andover's mission to be an international school, this summer officials at the academy signed the first high school student exchange agreement to exist between the United States and the Soviet Union. Phillips has been paired with the Novosibirsk Physics-Mathematics school, an academy in Siberia specializing in the maths and sciences. The exchange will involve up to ten students to arrive a year from now and representatives of the two schools will visit this coming winter to iron out a few remaining details.

Western Hemisphere Real To West Pupils

Three sixth grade classes at West Elementary School are presently working on a 50-foot mural of the Western Hemisphere on the hardtop outside the school. While all sixth grade students study the Western Hemisphere, Liz Greene, Helen Caplan, and Charlotte Lynch, social studies teachers at the school, developed the project in order to make social studies a little more interesting to their students. The teachers went to Scanlon Hardware for all th e supplies, and were given a 20 percent discount as well as a free gallon of paint from Jack Spires.

While some students work on the mural outside, others work on making salt and flour maps indoors, then the groups switch, so that all students eventually work on both projects. Each student is also required to write a report on one of the countries involved.

Both the maps and the mural include Canada, Central America, the West Indies, and the Bahamas, as well as the United States. All of the reports, along with the maps and mural, are designed to teach the students "where it (the Western Hemisphere) is, and what is included" in it, according to Liz Greene.

Greene added that next year, she and the other two teachers hope to obtain pen pals in the foreign countries for their students, thus taking the learning process one step further.

The best mattresses were once filled with white Arabian horsehair.

High School Marching Bands To Compete At Lovely Field

Jazz, show tunes, old standards and classics, marches and a touch of rock and roll—local residents will hear all these, and catch some fancy footwork as well, on Oct. 5, when high school marching bands take the field for Andover High School's annual band competition. The contest will take place at 1 p.m. Sunday on Lovely Field at Andover High School, and will be co-sponsored by the band association of Haverhill High School.

Contestants will compete against their peers in four size-determined divisions. According to Bob Mirisola, president of the parent-based Andover Band Association, 17 bands from schools as close as Lawrence, Methuen and North Reading, and as far as Dartmouth, Mass., will be represented.

"We know how long and hard the kids work during the competition season," said Mirisola. "We're all looking forward to hosting this competition; we've been working on it since last May. It will reflect a positive image for the town of Andover."

This year, the Andover High School Marching Band boasts 35 players and an 11-member color guard—numbers which place it, once again, in Division I, the designation for the smallest bands. Director Marc Keroack voiced optimism about the level at which his organization will be performing this year. "I feel we're going to do real well this year," he said. "We have a better balance, instrumentally, than we had last year."

The Oct. 5 competition is open to the general public. Tickets can be obtained through band members and parents, or purchased at the gate on the day of the contest. Adult admission is $3; admission for children is set at $2. Proceeds will be used by the Band Association to help defray the cost of instrumental music, band equipment, awards, and some of the organization's transportation.

Northern Essex Enrollment Up

Northern Essex Community College's enrollment has increased by about 3 percent for the third consecutive year to seven thousand nine hundred.

The Merrimack Valley community college's enrollment is expected to reach 8,800 by the end of the term when late-starting and off-term courses are counted, for an overall increase of about 6 percent compared to last year. College enrollments have been expected to decline during this ten-year period due to the declining numbers of high school graduates.

President John Dimitry says, "Our steady enrollment picture is evidence that we have the programs that meet the needs of students in the Merrimack Valley, not just students who are recent high school graduates, but older students who want to begin or return to post-secondary education, workers who want to upgrade their skills and non-English speaking persons who want to get into the mainstream of job advancement." The college has students from throughout the Merrimack Valley from Lowell to Newburyport and as far south as Reading. Programs are offered in Haverhill, in extension centers in Andover, Lawrence, Dracut and Newburyport, and in several industrial locations.

Norman Landry, dean of students, attributes the healthy enrollment to "a solid, traditional selection of transfer and occupational programs; special intensive training programs that begin throughout the year, good exposure of our programs through the newspapers, a mail brochure and word-of-mouth, plenty of financial aid, excellent assessment and advising services and quick, no-hassle turnaround on admissions and registration." College officials feel that more students realize the economic advantages of attending the first few years of college close to home, then transfering to a four-year college. Most of the college's transfer students eventually transfer to such institutions as the University of Lowell, Salem State College, Merrimack College and the University of Massachusetts at Amherst and Boston.

AFS Welcomes Foreign Students

Two families in Andover this year are hosting American Field Service foreign students. The two young ladies are bridging the gap betwen Italy, Japan and Andover. They are here to spend a year at Andover High School and share in the cultural and community life of their Andover host families.

Miho Shinei is from Himeji City, Japan, a suburb not too far from Osaka. Her father is a Shinto priest and her home in Japan is actually an old shrine. Miho already has joined in the high chool activities and is a member of the Madrigal choir and co-captain of the volleyball team. She is living with the Allen Maxwell family on Upland Road. The Maxwells have a son, David, and a daughter, Karen, who attend the high school.

The American Field Service organization of Italy has sent a vivacious 17-year-old girl from Bologna. Ilaria Zucchini is living with Dr. Larry Larsen and his wife, Nancy. The family includes Peter, a college student, and Ann, a sophomore at Andover High School. Ilaria has joined the high school swim team.

Both students and their host families were welcomed recently at an AFS Club picnic at the Francis O'Neils on Summer Street.

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

Most children are hit hard when they find out that another baby is coming, but often parents are not aware of this until the baby has arrived. It is so important to prepare your other child(ren) in a very realistic way. Make sure the positive and negative aspects are presented by informing them that caring for a baby is hard work sometimes and takes extra time. Make sure that the older child realizes that he or she has certain privileges and that they are setting examples for this new brother or sister. And, above all, involve older siblings in care of the baby whenever feasible.

AHS Students Commended

Sixteen students at Andover High School have been designated as Commended Students in the 1987 Merit Scholorship Program.

Geoffrey M. Bolan, Christine M. Boness, Lynne E. Brocklesby, Christopher Carlson, Tanya D. Hayward, David C. Kaplowitz, James V. Lambers, Lance Lee, Eileen M. Murphy, Matthew F. Murphy, Laura A. Oberst, John C. Pelz, David S. Penney, Karen Snell, Stephen E. Willard and Eric J. Yoder will all receive letters of commendation in recognition for their outstanding academic promise.

Andover High principal, Mary Athey Jennings, has announced that these Andover High seniors ranked in the top 50,000 of more than one million students taking the qualifying test which is administered by the National Merit Scholorship Corporation. Most of the students took the test last October, while in their junior year.

Although their qualifying test scores are high, they were slightly below the level necessary to continue on in the competition as semi-finalists. 15,000 semi-finalists will continue competing for some 6,000 merit scholorships to be awarded next spring.

Student Registration For PSAT/NMSQT

The attendance office at Andover High School is accepting registration of sophomores, juniors and seniors for the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test and registration of juniors for the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Registration can be made Monday through Friday, periods 5 and 7 or after school until 2:30 p.m. in the attendance office and period 6 at the switchboard in the main office. The cost of the exam is $8.50, payable by check at registration. No registrations will be accepted after Friday, Oct. 10. A Student Bulletin, which contains a sample test and answer key, will be given to students when they register. The check should be made payable to Andover High School.

This test is given to understand the contents of the Scholastic Aptitude Tests, to estimate a student's chance of getting into and succeding at the college of his/her choice, to enter the competition for scholarships awarded through the National Merit Scholarship Program and to participate in the Student Search Service and to send the names of individual students, if the student indicates, to colleges looking for students of particular ability.

The test is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 18, from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. All registered students should report no later than 8:30 a.m.

To Help Design Seminars

According to Rep. Sue Tucker, the education commission of the state is currently tracking the activities of over 100 task forces and commissions formed in response to concern about education.

From the Carnegie Report on Teaching as a Profession to Governor DuPont's Task Force on Education for Economic Growth, information and recommendations about school improvement are being generated at a rapid pace.

Demographic factors, business/education partnerships, access and equity, changing technology and research on effective schools all impact education policy in Massachusetts.

To provide a forum and share information on these issues, Tucker is workig with other education leaders in Massachusetts to plan a series of education policy seminars.

Among the group working with Tucker is Chancellor Frank Jenifer, Commissioner Raynolds and Board of Education Chair Jim Crain.

Tucker said that these seminars will be a dynamic way to sort out which proposals make sense for the future of the Commonwealth.

Dragon's Lair Becomes Reality

Opening day V.I.P. John LaVoie cuts the chain opening the Dragon's Lair, as Principal Iora Alexander, School Superintendent Kenneth Seifert and Adrianne Pappadopoulos, who designed the playground's logo, stand by. Hidden behind LaVoie is John Leonard, who gave the project its name.

By Susan K. O'Neill
and
Karen L. Day

It was a castle on the moor, its pinnacles poking up into the wooly mist. A maze; a cunning trap, baited to lure the eye and the foot and the hand and the imagination into what was, on this fog-bound Monday morning, a true dragon's lair.

Those who had helped build it stood in little clusters at the perimeter of the new Bancroft School playground. They spoke in hushed, almost respectful voices. "I guess I won't be sending her off in dainty dresses anymore," said one mother to another, nodding toward the impressive wooden structure.

It was after nine; slowly they drifted toward the bright construction-paper chains that separated the playground from the school.

The children spilled out of the school and onto the front apron. Principal Iora Alexander took the microphone and led them in saluting the flag, which hung muffled by the mist above their heads.

Then she announced the opening of the project that a thousand pairs of volunteer hands had built—"a playground," she said, "designed by the children of Bancroft and built by their parents and friends for them in a true example of community spirit."

Cheers. Balloons rose and dissolved into the overhanging greyness.

Alexander told the assembled school children that, today, they would be using the playground in shifts, as they had helped build it. And oh, yes—each child would be given a piece of sandpaper to take with him or her, "to smooth out any rough edges you might find."

Then the day's V.I.P.s—John LaVoie, head of the volunteer detail and instructor of carpentry at the Greater Lawrence Vocational Technical Institute; Adrianne Pappadopoulos, the fifth-grade student who designed the project's dragon-on-a-slide logo, and John Leonard, the sixth-grade special needs student who named the complex—scissored the paper chains.

The Dragon's Lair was open.

This ceremony, marking the official beginning of the playground, also marked the end of a seven-month frenzy of fundraising, planning and building for a handful of dedicated parent volunteers. "It's like the birth of a child for some of us," said childcare co-ordinator Nancy Scaliotis, whose little charges pasted together the paper chains while their parents worked. "Seven months of blood, sweat and tears."

The Dragon's Lair began, simply enough, with a suggestion from a student.

Last year, Massachusetts schools received funding for non-budgeted "improvement projects" from the state under legislation entitled Chapter 188. At Bancroft, Principal Alexander surveyed parents, seeking their opinions about where the money could best be spent. Many responded that they felt that the playground was inadequate and less than safe.

Alexander then sought suggestions for improving Bancroft's play equipment. A new fifth-grade student, Ashley Forget, showed the principal photos of the playground at her old Virginia school. It was a volunteer-built project designed by one Robert Leathers of Ithaca, N.Y.

Alexander was intrigued.

Forget presented her ideas to the school's "School Improvement Committee," who agreed to commission a feasibility study for a similar playground at Bancroft.

Alexander contacted Leathers. He came to Andover and spoke with students from each class at Bancroft in late February; from their suggestions, he drew up a preliminary design for what young John Leonard was soon to name "The Dragon's Lair." Then he met with the parents and explained the logistics of the project.

In order to make a project worth starting, Leathers required that he have more than one playground in the area in production at the same time. Conditions were favorable for Andover; there were two other such projects slated for eastern Massachusetts during the early fall—one in Sudbury, and another in West Roxbury.

The Andover School Committee approved the concept of the playground in late March. Project co-ordinators (and parents) Peter Prudden and Luke Pfeifle recruited a committee to handle fund-raising; they also established committees to deal with the hands-on aspects of the building—engaging volunteers, providing tools, buying materials, making food, caring for children during the construction, and co-ordinating the help of smaller hands.

Initially, the project's estimated budget of $40,000 brought some criticism from members of the Andover community at large. At one point, the School Committee was asked by a parent to make sure that the projected figure did not exceed state or local regulations for school-based projects.

Seemingly oblivious to these small waves, the parents raised the money. The PTO held a carnival. Project participants sold T-shirts; they drummed up food donations from a wealth of generous local establishments. They held an auction. They encouraged students and friends to "buy a board" on the playground for a three-dollar donation.

At last, on Thursday, Sept. 18, 175 volunteers and two professional foremen from Robert Leathers' company showed up to begin what was scheduled to be a four-day period of building.

Men and women sawed and sanded and drilled. Babies drooled on the laps of volunteer sitters as pre-schoolers pasted chains and watched jugglers and clowns. Older children sanded planks. Students from the Vocational Technical Institute hefted 1000 feet of utility poles into holes dug by workers from the electric and telephone companies. Crews hauled approximately 120,000 board feet of lumber into position on a bed of 220 tons of finely-crushed stone. And, in the midst of the chaos, volunteers assembled meals from donated foods for the builders and their charges in a nearby tent.

By Saturday, the building team had increased in number to approximately 460. Town workers did their share; Phillips Academy and Andover High School students joined in. A crew of Navy Seabees added their expertise. "We had parents, Bancroft almuni from the junior high school, grandparents—we had people who didn't even have students at Bancroft who heard that we needed help and came," said Alexander.

The exercise in community spirit went beyond the community. On Friday, for example, Prudden found himself short by a 14-foot pole. He called project workers for Leathers' Sudbury playground; they had an extra pole—but they were missing another piece of material. They arranged an exchange.

By late Sunday—9:30 or 10:00 p.m.—workers toiling under the Fire Department's temporary lighting set the last bolts. It was finished: the Dragon's Lair had become a reality.

The field at Bancroft had become a wooden fantasy land. Although organizers are not yet certain of the total cost of the project—final bills for all materials have not been fully tallied and borrowed equipment must be checked to determine if any repairs or replacements will be needed—one coordinator estimated that the structure cost between the targeted $40,000 and $45,000. "Temporary" Chairman Peter Prudden considers the price a bargain; he feels that paying for the help that was volunteered would have cost $200,000 - $300,000.

The list of credits for the Dragon's Lair would probably be too long to publish, but participants deemed John LaVoie the opening day Most Valuable Player for a number of reasons. It was LaVoie, they said, who brought some 70 Voc Tech students and eight instructors into the picture. It was LaVoie who lent many of the tools to the amateurs who wielded them. It was LaVoie who convinced the owner of Jackson Lumber to open on Sunday for the last few late purchases that made the project complete.

Alexander has nothing but praise for all the volunteers who lent their hours and hours of time to the planning and building of The Dragon's Lair. "Not often do parents have the opportunity to give their children a gift the size of this," she said.

She added that the playground is intended for the use of the whole community, not just Bancroft. In fact, by mid-day Monday, a group of pre-schoolers in town had already signed up for a field trip to visit the marvelous castle of the dragon.

Anniversary

About 150 years ago, a 20-year-old man came to Boston from New Hampshire to seek his fortune, and by the time of his death in 1903, he willed several million dollars for the founding of a non-profit school for the "teaching of the mechanical arts."

The young man was Arioch Wentworth and the educational institution he endowed is Wentworth Institute of Technology in Boston which has developed into a leader in engineering technology education.

This month marks the 75th anniversary of the first class to enroll at Wentworth. Two hundred and forty-four students enrolled as the school opened its doors in 1911. Today, the school has about 5,000 day, evening and weekend students. Of 195 accredited institutions in the country with engineering technology programs, Wentworth awards more degrees and has the largest enrollment of any of them.

In his will, Wentworth, who amassed his fortune in Boston in the soapstone, marble and real state business, directed his executors to furnish education at a modest cost. Tuition was ony $6 per semester; today tuition is $5,750 per year and the school grants associate and bachelor degrees. This is modest when compared with many other colleges and universities.

Of the five Great Lakes, only Lake Michigan is wholly in the United States. The others are partly in Canada.

Kitchen Design

by David A. Clement, Designer

Perhaps the most extraordinary time-saving appliance to be introduced to the kitchen in recent years is the microwave oven. It cooks food by using electromagnetic waves generated from a magnetron tube. As the waves pass through the glass, plastic or paper containers into the food, the moisture molecules vibrate so fast as to create friction which cooks the food with its heat energy. Microwave ovens come in countertop models, built-in units or as complete range with both conventional and microwave units, all meet stringent safety requirements. Set aside room in your kitchen plans to accommodate your choice of microwave ovens.

Wherever your laundry room is, isn't it about time you had some storage cabinets too? At WINDSOR KITCHENS we think you should have a completely workable room and that's why we can create cabinets above and surrounding your washing appliances. You can store unsightly and unsafe household cleansers. We'll give you the attention in your home to take measurements and provide you with information on costs. See us at 1181 Boston Rd., Ward Hill. Wed. 9-8; Thursday 9 to 5:30; Friday 9 to 5:30; Saturday 10 to 2; Sun., Mon., Tues., closed or by appointment. Tel: 372-3444.

HANDY HINT:

To Give Memorial Lecture

Dr. M. Scott Peck

Visiting Nurse Association HomeCare Hospice will present a lecture and workshop by noted author Dr. M. Scott Peck at the Methuen High School Auditorium on Wednesday, Oct. 22, at 7 p.m. during the Second Annual Ted Perrault Memorial Lecture, sponsored by the New England GMC Truck Dealers Association.

Peck, author of several books, including "The Road Less Traveled" and "People of the Lie," will present "Spirituality and the Psychology of Human Nature." The program will feature his insights and experiences concerning human nature, the stages and development of spiritual growth and the human capacity for change.

The workshop, "Going to Omaha: The Issue of Death and Meaning," will be held from 9 a.m. to 12 noon at South Church in Andover. Limited to 60 participants, this workshop will cover religious growth and the personal struggle with the mystery of death.

Peck is a nationally recognized authority on the relationship between science and religion and the science of psychology in particular. He speaks widely on this subject and related topics and is engaged in promoting scientific research at the intersection between psychiatry and religion. A magna cum laude graduate of Harvard, Peck earned his medical degree in 1963. He spent nine years in the Army and resigned in 1972 as chief psychiatry and neurology consultant to the Surgeon General of the Army with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. Peck resides in New Preston, Conn., and spends his time writing and on the lecture circuit.

The Ted Perrault Memorial Lecture is sponsored by the New England GMC Truck Dealer Association in memory of Mr. Perrault who died unexpectedly after becoming the first president and key influence in the development of the association. The association, made up of more than 50 dealerships from all over New England, sponspored Elisabeth Kubler-Ross, the renowned expert on death and dying, last year.

For registration or information, contact VNA HomeCare Hospice, 451 Andover St., North Andover. Continuing education units for nurses will be made available.

Organization Needs Volunteers

The Big Brother/Big Sister Association of Greater Lawrence, Inc. has served the Merrimack Valley area for nine years. The agency provides one-to-one volunteer services for children from single parent families. These children are given the caring friendship of an adult Big Brother or Big Sister in an effort to increase self-esteem and provide the positive same sex role model which is so important in healthy personal development.

Currently, 48 boys and 60 girls are "matched." The children range from 7-16 years old. All are in the higher risk situation caused by single parenting and/or foster home placements. Their primary need is to feel better about themselves. The consistent friendships of adult volunteers often fill the void caused by disrupted families. Volunteers meanwhile experience the gratification of helping deserving children be all that they can be. Big Brothers and Sisters are asked to see their "Littles" three to five hours a week for a minimum of one year.

Nearly 120 boys are waiting for a Big Brother. Some may wait as long as three years because of the volunteer shortage, others never get that special friend they so deserve. The wait for girls is shorter, but Big Sisters are also needed.

As the divorce rate continues to climb, the need to positively support the children caught in the middle also grows. The divorce of one's parents is a frightening and disorienting experience. Often young children must take on parental roles with younger siblings. Pressures arise that can be defused with the help of an adult friend who asks nothing of the child but to be him/herself.

Being a Big Brother or Big Sister is fun for the volunteer and child. The resulting enjoyment and friendship can make a real difference in the life of a child from a troubled background. If you are 18 or older, have access to a car and have the time, call the Big Brother/Big Sister office.

LASER FOOT SURGERY
Laser Surgery is one of the newest and most significant applications of laser tecnology in the last two decades. Laser Surgery takes advantage of intense heat generating properties to cut and remove tissue without the undesirable side effects that sometimes result from using a scapel. The laser produces a man-made light that has only one color and does not produce any undesirable radiation. The laser we use is the Carbon-dioxide Laser and it is the most versatile of the medical lasers.
In our office we now use this laser technology in the removal of warts and other skin lesions of the foot. Studies have now shown and the "jury is in" on this new method for the treatment of plantars warts. Warts to be removed are identified, anesthetized with local anesthesia if necessary and "lased" with short burts of laser light. Not only does the laser remove the warty tissue, but it also stops the bleeding and prevents the swelling that usually results in post-operative discomfort. Not only is this treatment effective, but discomfort and limitations are minimal.

Personnel Actions Approved

At the School Committee meeting held Sept. 9, numerous personnel actions were taken.The first matter of business was for the committee to approve all personnel actions taken over the summer by the Superintendent's office. All were approved except for the election of Mary French to Pupil Personnel Administrator, the subject of much heated debate, and the retirement of Nora T. Harrison.

Harrison, a West Junior High English teacher, asked that the committee not act on her retirement until she is granted "a hearing in executive session." She sent a letter to chairman Michael Giammusso making the request last week, but stated that she had received no reply. Giammusso explained that he did not receive the letter until the Saturday before the meeting, and that a response was already on the way to her.

Robb agreed that it may be better to defer the vote temporarily, but the board was concerned with having the position filled in the meantime. Superintendent Kenneth Seifert explained that since the "intent to retire was serious," he had already found a replacement for Mrs. Harrison, so a temporary delay would not affect the school.

The administration then informed the committee on the opening of the schools and on enrollment and staffing. Seifert commented that the opening of the schools "certainly went more smoothly than tonight's personnel actions."

Assistant Superintendent of Secondary Schools Leslie Loomis commented that a decrease of 137 students enrolled allowed the administration to put teachers into leadership roles without changing the student/teacher ratios. Loomis informed the board that there are two positions that remained open at the time of the meeting. Both openings, one as industrial arts teacher and the other as permanent substitute English teacher, were the result of last minute resignations.

Assistant Superintendent of Elementary Schools Lois Haslam explained that she found great interest among the teachers in the leadership and Horace Mann positions as well as great overall enthusiasm, especially in new staff members. Haslam also noted an increased enrollment despite a decline in the number of sixth-grade students.

Seifert explained that a survey of parents sending high schoolers to private schools would be done in order to analyze why they did not send their children to public schools in Andover. "The numbers are showing the possibility of having a four-year high school," he commented.

After the overview, the board began a discussion regarding human relations in the schools. Seifert commented "I've yet to see effective human relations in a social system," but thinks that there are some things that can be done to improve the present situation. He stated that a "constitution" has been instituted at the high school level, a beginning toward better relationships in the school system. Birnbach commended the student leadership program held during the summer, stating that he felt it had a "very positive" effect.

Finally, the committee directed the school administration to compile recommendations for a master plan.

tion, had been done recently. Neal stated that he was unaware of any recent audits in Andover, and French agreed that although auditors have examined the programs of some neighboring communities, Andover had not been included.

William Hogg, 120 Wildwood Road, whose wife works for French, commented that "We could look into far more critical areas where we see problems" instead of examining 766. He stated that he felt that the committee was simply avoiding action by appointing a group to conduct an evaluation.

After explaining that the committee was trying to address concerns that have been expressed, Giammusso called for a vote on Neal's motion to have the evaluation done. The decision was unanimous, and the committee will discuss who will be included in the evaluation group at their next meeting.

Birnbach reiterated his concern that the post was not advertised statewide. He also commented that although he requested in writing that Superintendent Seifert forward him all resumes submitted for consideration, he only received French's. He added that as far as he knew, the administration reports to the committee and thus, he should have been able to acquire the infomation. Again, he brought up the issue of tenure for management positions like Seifert's because it lessened accountability to the committee.

After Neal asked that the committee address the issue of information request processes, Birnbach commented, apparently in reference to those who disagree with his questioning nature, that "if people aren't happy...remove me at the next election."

Poore requested "a very real discussion of the management level" of positions in the school system. Neal agreed that it should be discussed soon, since negotiations with the administrative unit are presently underway, and that some issues could possibly be included in the negotiations.

Evening Programs

The Musicians of Swanne Alley performing "Of Byrdes, Bees, Battles, and Beauties" on Oct. 9 and "A Harvest Night Frolic," an Evening Program For Families on Oct. 15 and 22, are featured in an October evening program series at Old Sturbridge Village, Sturbridge, Mass. These special events give individuals and families the opportunity to enjoy an evening of entertainment in a unique historic setting.

The series begins on Oct. 9 with The Musicians of Swanne Alley's performance of music of Shakespearean England in the Center Meetinghouse at 8:30 P.M. The group, directed by Lyle Nordstrom and Paul O'Dette, is made up of individuals of Canadian, German, and American cultural backgrounds. Before the concert, ticket holders may stroll through the Village grounds and enjoy cocktails at the Bullard Tavern from 6:00-6:45 P.M. At 6:45 P.M. a special chicken dinner is offered by reservation at the Bullard Tavern.

On both Oct. 15 and 22 "A Harvest Night Frolic," an Evening Program For Families, is offered from 6:30-8:30 P.M. Individuals and families are invited to explore the Village on an evening walk and see images from the past. After the walk participants gather around fires at the Museum Education Building to share stories over cider and cookies. All participants are asked to bring flashlights for the walk and a Jack O'Lantern for display.

Broadway To Comedy At Center

A new contemporary production of the theatrical sensation "Jesus Christ Superstar," comedian Buddy Hackett, vocalist Jerry Vale and a children's musical pop concert headline the month of October at the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts, Shawsheen Road, Andover.

An innovative, modern adaptation of the rock concert "Jesus Christ Superstar" will begin its national tour of 32 states at the Collins Center on Tuesday, Oct. 7, at 7 p.m.

Praised for its effective use of a high-tech set, contemporary costumes and state-of-the-art lighting and visual effect, this highly acclaimed production concerns the "greatest story ever told," the final seven days of the life of Christ.

Buddy Hackett, one of the premiere comics in the entertainment field, will bring his unique brand of comic entertainment to the Collins Center on Thursday, Oct. 16, at 8 p.m. in a special show for mature audiences only.

Hackett has recently produced a widely acclaimed HBO special, played nightclubs, starred in major motion pictures and appeared on Broadway.

Jerry Vale and comedian Marty Brill will provide an evening of entertainment on Saturday, Oct. 25, at 8 p.m.

Well known for frequent appearances in the Massachusetts area, he has become the "ambassador of song" for contemporary romantic music and performs in the most prestigious resorts, theaters and cabarets.

Brill, a favorite of the entertainment circuit, is also an accomplished musician and is fluent in five languages.

"Discover Japan," a new film, will inaugurate a special travelog series on Saturday, Oct. 29, at 8 p.m. Narrated live by photographer Ted Bumiller, the all-color film highlights Japan with its civilization so different from our own.

Shows slated later in the fall include Doug Henning's new show of magic, Jose Feliciano, pop artist Eddie Rabbitt and a spectacular production of the "Nutcracker" by the Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre.

A limited number of season subscriptions and sample subscriptions are still available at substantial discounts.

Tickets for all Collins Center events may be purchased at the Collins Center box office and at Ticketrons.

Jay Leno To Appear In Lowell

Laughs have been a trademark since the Lowell Auditorium reopened its 64-year-old doors last October. Robin Williams and Billy Crystal made their only Greater Boston appearances there earlier this year. So did George Carlin, who sold out a February 1 date.

But, the latest nationally known comic headed this way has a special reason to appear—he's coming home.

Jay Leno, a native of Andover and the Merrimack Valley, will appear in concert Saturday, Nov. 15, at 7:30 p.m. Reserved seats are on sale now.

Leno, one of the country's fastest rising comics, has hosted "Saturday Night Live" and the recent MTV Awards special. David Letterman calls him his "favorite guest."

Tickets are available at the auditorium, all Ticketron outlets, through Teletron and by mail in care of the auditorium, Lowell, Mass. 01852.

AMC Sunday Walk

Haggett's Pond is Andover's water supply and was a hunting and fishing place for Indians centuries before the Pilgrims arrived.

Just west of Haggett's is a turtle-shaped mound constructed of huge blocks of stone and large enough to enter. No one knows who built it, but theories abound, including the Vikings, Norsemen, Celtic Monks and Indians.

The Andover Committee of the Appalachian Mountain Club will sponsor a walk around Haggett's Pond, including a visit to the turtle mound, on Sunday, Sept. 28.

The group will meet at Barrons' Country Store, Route 133 and Haggett's Pond Road, at 1:30 p.m. Doris Grandfield will lead the easy three-mile walk. The public

On Monday, Oct. 6, 1986, at 7:30 p.m. Harry J. Somers, M.Ed., C.A.G.S., an experienced alcohol and family therapist, will present a seminar that will address the lingering difficulties that adult children of alcoholics may face and also focus on the process of recovery through therapy and self-help groups.

This seminar will be held at the offices of THE SOMERS TRUST/PSYCHOLOGICAL ASSOCIATES located at 789 Turnpike Street (Rte. 114), The Willows Professional Park in North Andover, MA.

Women & Custody

If you are separated from your husband and are concerned that your husband may intend to fight you for custody of your children, you may be hesitant to date, socialize or pursue a career because you are afraid you will lose your children if you do. If you have been the primary caretaker of your children before or since the separation, the standard which a Court will apply to determine which parent shall be awarded custody – the best interest of the children – does not necessarily require you to make drastic changes in your life style or your career.

Opportunities Available In Scouting

Last year more than 1,200 Girl Scout adults were trained by qualified trainers in a variety of areas and adult development director, Marci Miller, expects even more availability of courses and locations this year.

"A program of contiuous adult education is an integral part of girl scouting," says Miller, "and to help girls grow, learn and become active and resourceful citizens, adults must continue to grow, learn and develop, too." Areas of training available to Girl Scout adults include orientation for leaders, program updates, first aid and enrichment courses in quick craft ideas, singing and more. Also available are out-of-doors courses which include outdoor training, troop camping and primitive camping.

Miller also notes that "Spar and Spindle Girl Scout Council is pleased to be able to offer Continuing Education Units (CEUs) for our standard courses in collaboration with Salem State College." Adults are needed in many capacities from a troop leader or assistant leader to cookie manager or public relations representative.

To join the more than 2,500 volunteers that make girl scouting happen, contact the Spar and Spindle Girl Scout Council.

Tours New Cruiser

Lee Grune

By special invitation of the Navy Recruiting District of Boston, Mrs. Lee Grune, guidance counselor at the Greater Lawrence Technical School since 1972, was among a group of counselors and educators invited to tour the newly commissioned AEGIS cruiser "USS Bunker Hill" on Wednesday, Sept. 17, in Charlestown.

The Bunker Hill is the first U.S. combat ship to be equipped with the MK 41 Vertical Launching System, a multi-warfare missile launching system capable of firing a mix of missiles against airborne, surface and underwater threats. The AEGIS weapon system, built by RCA, integrates electronic detection, engagement and control equipment. The 567-foot long Bunker Hill, with a cruising speed in excess of 30 knots, will carry a crew of 400. After touring the ship, educators met with the chief commanding officer and crew at a reception.

Mrs. Grune is president-elect of the Northeast Counselors Association, which hosted the tour. She lives at 2 Magnolia Avenue with her husband, Kurt Goldschmidt.

The First United Methodist Church, 57 Peters St. (intersection of Routes 114 and 133), will conclude its year-long celebration of 140 years of Methodist witness in the North Andover community by welcoming the Rev. Donald K. Coburn, pastor from 1973 to 1978, back to its pulpit for the 10:30 a.m. worship service on Sunday, Sept. 28.

Family Asks Board Rescind Payment For Land Taking

By Susan K. O'Neill

When the state cut through Andover in 1958 to build Route 93, it divided the farm land that Elizabeth Fitzpatrick's father had bought in 1922 into two parcels. The farmhouse and seven acres of land sat on one side of the highway; a remaining 58-acre parcel sat on the other.

The larger parcel was land-locked by the highway, sandwiched between neighbors without a clear access to the outside world.

For years, the Andover Conservation Commission offered to buy the land from the Boloians, Fitzpatrick's family, because it lay in the heart of the Fish Brook water shed. For years, the family declined the offer.

At last, the town placed the parcel on the Town Meeting warrant as a prospect for taking by eminent domain. It was, town officials assured the family, a formality; it allowed the town to negotiate with the owners for a fair market price. The town never really took land.

The family did not fight the article; it was approved. The Boloians and the town negotiated for a sale.

More than a year passed. Then, recently, Fitzpatrick received a check from the town that indicated that the land would be taken. In it was a check for $48,000, a pro tanto payment for the Boloian parcel.

Monday night, she and Atty. Richard Asoian of Asoian & Tully, Andover, appeared before the selectmen to ask that the board rescind the approval for the land taking. At the heart of the issue lay a distinct difference of opinion between the family and the town concerning the value of the land.

"We didn't expect to get what we would from a private developer," said Fitzpatrick, "but we thought we were pretty close to a price." Then, she said, she had been surprised to receive the check for $48,000—for land that she had been advised was worth $360,000. "Had we known this would be the case," she said, "we would probably have fought it on the floor of Town Meeting at the time."

Attorney Asoian told the board that the family had tried to go along with the town in not fighting the approval; they clearly preferred to give the land to the town rather than to a private developer. They had negotiated in good faith. "This is why it really sticks in their craw at this time," he said. "All they wanted was a reasonable price—and that reasonable price should have been fair market value at the time."

Fitzpatrick described the land as being crossed by the brook, but "not totally wet."

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony explained that pro tanto payment was a step in land-taking, not a final move; it protected the town's position by preventing owners from combining parcels with their neighbors or considering other offers. Even at this point, the town could opt to drop its interest in the land.

"We have not taken the land," he said.

Nor had the town placed a value of $48,000 on the land with the payment, he added. A pro tanto payment reflects a percentage of the value, as determined by qualified assessors. Mahony added that the town had garnered two such appraisals, both of which placed the value of the land in the range of 70 to 80 thousand dollars.

"We feel we should pay fair market value on this," he said, "whether it's $300,000 or $125,000 or whatever." He added that he was still trying to find some concrete proof of the land's value, and that, in the attempt, he had found nothing to indicate that the figure cited by Fitzpatrick was accurate.

"This," he added, indicating the board room, "is not the place to negotiate."

While he also maintained that the subject should not be discussed further in a public forum because of the potential for litigation, Selectman John Scileppi expressed his concern that the Boloians had apparently been discouraged from making their objections known before the Town Meeting assembly at the time the taking was approved. "You had the same option to raise the same argument as the Garabedians did at the last town meeting," he said, referring to another family that had successfully fought approval. "You should have the option to make the same plea." He asked Asoian why appraisal figures for the town and the family varied so greatly.

Atty. Asoian answered that the town's appraisal of the land was low because it was viewing the parcel as landlocked.

According to Asoian, Fitzpatrick had received her figure in 1985 from a representative of the Conservation Committee. At the time, he said, the Boloian land was being considered for private development as one of a three-parcel, non-landlocked package. Asoian said that the commission had hired an appraiser to arrive at the figure of $360,000, and had indicated that the town would take it at that price.

Ultimately, said Asoian, the family decided to sell to the town as a single parcel. After the breakup of the alliance, the neighboring parcels were also approved, individually, for land taking by the town meeting assembly.

Contacted after the meeting, Mahony explained that the Boloian land is "extremely vital" to the town's plans for protection of its water supply. "Its highest, best use is the preservation of the watershed," he said. "I think they (the family) agree with me."

He maintained, however, that it is indeed a landlocked parcel, and that it could not be viewed for its development potential because, in its landlocked position and with its preponderance of wetlands, it would not be easily developed.

He said that the family had had ample time to contract with neighboring landowners to secure a right-of-way,

Bancroft Crossing Guard OK But No One Is Available

By Susan K. O'Neill

Although the Board of Selectmen agreed with parents on Monday night that the walk from Salem Street to the Bancroft School is hazardous for their children, they were forced to concede that their vote to remedy a perilous traffic situation at Bancroft Road might mean little more than a few encouraging words.

The shadow that falls between the motion and the act, as explained by Town Manager Kenneth Mahony, is the town's inability to recruit crossing guards. "We are currently down two from our staff of crossing guards," he told the board, "and we have been unable to recruit replacements."

According to Mahony, guards are paid at a rate of slightly more than eight dollars per hour for their time on duty. The brevity of that time, however, makes the work less than profitable.

"It seems to me we're going to have to create an incentive to get crossing guards," said Selectman William Dalton. "If that means we're going to have to pay a few extra bucks, we're going to have to pay a few extra bucks."

Mahony said that the situation could not be addressed so simply; in past attempts to fill positions, the money did not seem to provide a very effective incentive. "Since we have that T.V. going," he added, nodding toward the cable television camera in the room, "let's plead for crossing guards."

Since no guard has been posted previously at the site, the request by concerned parents for traffic direction at the intersection of Bancroft Road and South Main Street would increase the present guard shortage to three. According to Deborah Martin of Salem Street, the intersection experiences a heavy—and often fast-paced—traffic flow of parents who drive their children to school. "We really feel that this presents quite a danger to the children, many of whom are young," she said.

In addition to the guard posting, Martin also recommended, on behalf of the parents, that the town designate Bancroft Road a school zone and install flashing lights.

She also asked that sidewalks be built on an area of the road where they are now lacking.

Mahony agreed with most of the recommendations. He said, however, that sidewalk improvements might add little to the solution of the problem. Because the town is unable to clear all of its sidewalks of snow, he said, children would probably walk in the street during the winter, when the weather is even more treacherous for drivers.

"The problem," said Mahony, "is the drivers themselves—not that they're reckless or anything. They're dropping their children off; they're done, and they want to get out and get where they're going."

Marshall Darling of Stevens Street suggested recruiting guards from the older population, including senior citizens.

Mahony said that individuals who are stricken with mobility or arthritic problems would not be equipped to handle the job.

"Obviously, you look for someone who isn't," said Darling.

Having been informed that school buses could handle the sector of the stu-

Planners Reluctantly Grant Subdivision

By Susan K. O'Neill

At Tuesday's meeting, the Planning Board gave its unanimous but reluctant approval to definitive plans for "Spencer Court," a 12-acre cluster subdivision to be located off High Plain Road.

Chairman Michael Houghton prefaced his vote by commenting that he did not feel entirely comfortable dealing with the piece of "marginal" land. However, he noted, because of its nature, the parcel had been studied more extensively than many that had been approved in the past. It was an example of the only type of land left in Andover to be developed, he said—and, with the present market conditions, such land would be developed.

He commended the staff on the time and effort they had spent in working with the project's developers and engineers.

The vote was 4-0, with Planner Paul Curley absent.

At a public hearing earlier this month, many of the project's abutters had roundly criticized it because they felt it would increase drainage problems in an already wet area. They also felt that the subdivision would present a significant safety hazard to pedestrians and drivers on the already unsafe High Plain Road, and that the use of several dump trucks over a long period of time to haul 3900 cubic yards of fill onto the site would prove especially dangerous for the children who walk to West Elementary School on the road

In an attempt to address these and other issues, the planning staff added a list of 27 conditions to the approval of the plans. These included such safety measures as the limitation of hauling to a 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. schedule (weekdays only), the routing of trucks to avoid the front of the school, and the installation of a sidewalk on the east side of the subdivision road, from the cul-de-sac to High Plain Road.

Physical Planner Steven Colyer added that the staff and the project's engineers had worked together to develop an effective drainage system. The lower end of the subdivision, three lots on the cul-de-sac, were a particular focus of concern, he said. "With sensitive work by the developer, especially on these back three lots, drainage problems could probably be controlled," he said.

Recalling the public hearing, Board Member Carl Byers mused, "Now, the residents—this is it; they don't have any more shots at it?"

"Not unless they appeal the board's decision," answered Colyer.

Opinion

Thought We'd Mention

Just a few thoughts this week as we anxiously await the November election.

We know its an election year, since several officeholders have either visited or made appointments to stop by the office. Last time they did that was two years ago, or four as the case may be, at about the same time.

And, while on the subject of elections, a tip of the hat to Marion Hill who saw to it that the polling laws were upheld and had Gov. Dukakis removed from Andover's single polling place. The governor had stopped by and was greeting voters within the polling area which is outside the limits for candidates.

The Andover woman was cognizant of the governor's stature, but not impressed enough to overlook the law. Dukakis courteously abandoned his brief visit.

THe fact that the town manager is having a difficult time filling crossing guard positions is curious.

This week parents of Bancroft school children requested a crossing guard for their school area. While the manager and selectmen were agreeable to the request, it was pointed out that there were no candidates available, in fact, the town was already two short.

The salary does not seem to be the problem, more the brevity of the hours involved, thus making the position not completely worthwhile.

One would think, however, that there must be some parents in these various school areas who would be willing to give the time necessary, even though it means a commitment to irregular hours.

Hopefully through comment here and the pointing out of the problem at Monday's selectmen's meeting, the problem can be resolved by some positive response from parents living in dangerous school zone areas.

The guards perform an important service to the community, insuring the safety of our youngsters as they travel to and from school at dangerous intersections.

While on the subject of Bancroft, a salute to the parents, friends, faculty and all those involved in the production of the Dragon's Lair playground.

A lengthy project involving fund raising and donated labor, among other things, has produced a magnificent recreational facility.

While those involved were generally from the Bancroft area, the total project seemed like a worthy community effort of which those directly involved can be justly proud.

Finally, we question why the Mass. Electric Co., or whoever is in charge, leaves dangling utility poles for what seems like an uncommonly long time.

In many sections of the community there are half-cut or severely damaged poles attached to new ones.

Not only are these doubled-up poles unsightly, but in some cases seem precarious.

Can't the utility see to it that the damaged or remainder of the damaged pole be removed?

More Than One Mountain To Climb

By Susan K. O'Neill

It started simply enough; friends invited us to climb Mount Washington with them this weekend. Without kids.

I jumped at the chance. After all, in 15 years of parenting, Paul and I have only had four weekends away from our children. Even convicted felons get more furlough time than that.

The only problem was a logistical one: how to make sure the kids were taken care of while we were away.

All our relatives live out-of-state. Nobody who isn't related really wants to take care of three kids at once (not that relatives do—but to keep the family peace, they usually won't admit it). I don't know any pay sitters very well.

Also, the kids have typical Andover schedules—with weekend soccer.

I set to work. I got the parents of Kelly's best friend to take him for the weekend. Then we decided to let Kim watch Kramer, who's 11. It would be a vote of confidence in our teenager. We'd have adult friends look in on them and transport Kramer to his soccer game.

It was too easy, right?

Right.

A few days ago, Kim told me she had a party to go to on Saturday. She probably wouldn't get home until midnight.

That left Kramer in the lurch. It also meant she'd be driven home by friends to an empty house. I didn't like that idea.

So we asked our friends if they could bunk in on Saturday night. They wouldn't have to do anything—just be there.

They agreed.

Then Kim told me that she had band practice all day on Saturday. Furthermore, she had to play for the football game on Friday night.

Kramer would be by himself.

About this time, Kelly managed to break his thumb. It is now in a splint.

I decided Kramer would come with us to Mount Washington. He was thrilled.

I asked our friends to bring Kim back from the game on Friday, so they would know (in our stead) that she was safely home. Then, as planned, they'd bunk in on Saturday.

I told Kim my plan. She hit the roof.

"You don't trust me!" she cried. "I won't do it! You're having me babysat!!" Then, the real zinger: "Since when have you cared that much about me, that you make all these plans???"

We do get nasty, at 15, when we are offended.

I told her that if she didn't agree to the plan, I'd stay home—and so would she.

She agreed.

Things looked pretty good.

I told Kelly's keepers about his thumb. They had no problem with caring for the splint—but they warned me that their child had come home from school with a mild case of head lice a few days ago. It was now cured, they assured me.

Kelly is taking his own bed roll and pillow to his friend's house.

He is also taking an antibiotic; we just discovered he has an ear infection.

But they're all set now. All three of them. We can go.

I'm so tired, I'm not sure I'll be able to make it up the mountain

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — September 1911

The local police were notified this week of the disappearance of Miss Elizabeth Hobbs of North Hampton, N.H., who left her home on Monday to visit relatives here. The young woman, who is about 26, bought a ticket for Andover and boarded a train which does not stop here. Failing to leave the train at South Lawrence, Miss Hobbs was carried through to Boston, where she was finally located by police on Tuesday afternoon.

The "open nights" have been continued Saturday evenings at the Guild. These evenings are for girls, and have taken the place of the one evening for the boys of last summer. Those in charge feel that they have been a very helpful influence.

Townsman Editor: Last Tuesday afternoon four Frye Village boys, all members of good families, were caught in the act of stoning the trees and taking apples from a private field. And, by the way, the quantity of stones in one's field is no small matter to be reckoned, especially when it comes to mowing.

Andover is herself again...the entire school life, including private schools, of the town getting long sleep is ended, and young life is once more in the streets. The three vacation periods that come to the schools each year take the students away for a long enough time to impress upon the tradespeople and the citizens at large, what a factor they are in the ordinary business of the community.

50 Years Ago — September 1936

A four-day festival will be held on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the coming week by St. Augustine's parish on the parochial school grounds. The carnival is expected to achieve the same degree of success as the series of carnivals held at the playstead by the Knights of Columbus about ten years ago. It is the first one held by the parish in years.

Novelty events and races provided an entertaining program at the annual water carnival which closed the 1936 season at Pomps pond bathing beach last Sunday afternoon. Rain forced a postponement from Saturday.

The TOWNSMAN is seriously considering having a sign printed for use on the counter in the office—or possibly we might just paste it up on the front door to save the W.P.A. workers a few extra steps. It would read something like this: "Yes, this is the TOWNSMAN office." "It's published by the Andover Press, Ltd." "Established in 1887." "Yes, we have bound volumes of every issue to date in the cabinet under the counter." It seems that the W.P.A. with its boondoggling imagination has conceived some kind of project to employ men whose job evidently is to go around to publishing houses and find out such information as the above. We have been visited by two men asking the same questions, one of whom actually came by twice for the same information.

We knew winter would come, but it didn't have to come so soon.

25 Years Ago — September 1961

Plans have been made for the annual Boosters Club drive. Chairman Charles O. McCullom spoke to a high school assembly last Friday, explaining the need for volunteers from the school.

Air Force Capt. Margaret R. McFarlin, 2 Punchard Ave., flew into the airport at North Andover Saturday, thus completing a six-day flight across the country in her

Guard

dent population now walking from the Salem Street area, Selectman Donn Byrne recommended that parents have their children bused to school until a crossing guard could be found.

Selectman John Scileppi objected. "That's putting the problem back on the parents," he said. He added that enforcing busing as a temporary solution might further delay the procurement of a guard.

"I'm merely saying, it would be a shame to risk these children when there's a safe means of transportation available," countered Byrne.

A Salem Street resident explained that the bus arrives at his stop at 8 a.m.—45 minutes before school starts. "The timing of it is way out of sync," he said. He asked for a clarification: was the meeting saying, "Yes, there is a slot for a guard being created?"

"Yes," answered Chairman Charles Wesson.

At Monday's meeting, the board also:

• voted to issue stickers for all-day parking to library workers, for use in their new parking lot once it is completed—probably in mid-November. The vote included a provision for one-hour meters for library patrons on the lot.

Selectman William Dalton also suggested posting a sign warning patrons that the meters will be enforced until the library's closing hours. "That's not so for the other town meters, right?" he asked Town Manager Kenneth Mahony.

Mahony stated that meters in the town lots were, indeed, not enforced after 5 p.m. "I haven't posted anything about it," he added, provoking laughter from the assembly.

Discussing the less-than-lightening speed with which the entire library project is being completed, Selectman Donn Byrne commented, "You could build the pyramids manually in the time it's taking to build that project."

Mahony agreed that the pace was slow—but added that he felt it was better to do the job correctly, if slowly, than to have to correct mistakes due to hasty building after the project was done.

• voted unanimously to legitimatize the existing parking pattern on Brook Street. According to town records, parking on either side of the street is prohibited. The vote allows parking to continue, without penalty, on the north side.

• reiterated that Andover, working from a combined grant with North Andover, will be sponsoring a collection of household hazardous wastes on Saturday, Oct. 4, at Merrimack College. Materials such as household solvents, detergents and other chemicals should be brought to the collection site at the college—which will be designated by posted signs—between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. that day.

Warriors Defeated in Home Opener

The Andover High Warriors lost their 1986 home opener to the Lowell Red Raiders last Friday 21-6. A crowd of close to 1,000 watched the Warriors go down in defeat under the lights. Warriors Bow To Lowell, 21-6

by Rick Harrison

Lowell High School continued its football hex over Andover, the Red Raiders scoring twice early and then throwing up a strong defense en route to a 21-6 Merrimack Valley Conference triumph over the Golden Warriors last Friday night at Lovely Field.

A crowd in excess of 1,000 watched Andover's 1986 Friday night home debut.

The loss squared AHS' overall record at 1-1-0, following an opening 14-0 triumph against Lawrence High, while Lowell also stands at 1–0.

Lowell unleashed a 280-yard ground attack, led by Scott Ogden's 170 yards in 28 caries, and their defense limited the Golden Warriors to an uncharacteristic 20 yards passing on just 1-for-8 through the air.

Early Strike

Lowell grabbed a 6-0 lead before most of the fans had a chance to settle in their seats.

Andover's first possession featured a first-down bomb from Gus Duffy to John Perry that fell incomplete, a three-yard run by Devon Arsenault and a four-yard sack of Duff be defensive tackle Mike Brown. That forced a Duffy punt that was fielded cleanly by single safety Matt Donovan. He found daylight up the middle and then zigzagged his way 61 yards for a touchdown.

Jamie Clarke and Brian Costello broke through to block placekicker Bill Janes' attempted extra point, but with a mere 1:41 gone Lowell enjoyed a 6-0 edge.

Mike Klinger returned the subsequent kickoff 23 yards to the Golden Warriors' 39 and Andover started to move as Capt. Duffy ripped off 18 yards of turf, Capt. Steve Redgate added five to the LHS 38 and Arsenault cruised 20 yards. But, a fumble killed the threat, sophomore defensive end Dave Slattery covering the loose ball at the Lowell 13.

The Red Raiders proceeded to drive 87 yards in 11 plays for their second TD, increasing the spread to 13-0 at 7:37.

Ogden, after being stopped for no gain, chewed up 43 yards in five carries during the march.

QB Janes found Tom Lafferty for a 19-yard gain along the way and fire hydrant Joe Ferreira clicked off runs of 6, 9 and 8 yards.

Ferreira knifed across from the two to score what proved to be the winning touchdown and Janes split the uprights with the conversion.

Frustration

Redgate christened the Golden Warriors' next drive with a 21-yard jaunt, but the march fizzled near midfield with Duffy again forced to punt. Donovan almost broke another one, moving 15 yards to the 32, and the first quarter ended with three Ogden runs for 27 total yards.

The Red Raiders emerged from the opening period with seven first downs and 112 yards offense, but three plays into the second quarter linebacker Rich Bourdelais intercepted a Janes' pass intended for Ogden at the AHS 29.

The only other serious bid of the opening half belonged to Lowell, Janes uncorking a 31-yard pass to Capt. Dave Donahue at the Andover 21 on the final play.

The second half almost started on a downer for the frustrated Golden Warriors as Lowell's Dave Sancartier gathered in Duffy's kickoff and motored 88 yards for an apparent touchdown. The play was called all the way back to the LHS 24-yard line by a holding penalty, but that just prolonged Andover's agony as the city crew marched 76 yards in 12 plays for their final score.

Ogden highlighted the trek with eight carries for 69 yards, including the drive-capping one-yard plunge.

Janes rolled out right and dove to paydirt for the two-point conversion and a 21-0 lead for the dominant Lowell squad.

Coach Dick Collins' club took the ensuing kickoff and cruised 67 yards in 11 plays for its lone touchdown. Key plays in the surge were a 14-yard keeper by Duffy, an 11-yard gain on a pitchout by Arsenault and a 21-yard pass from Duffy to Perry with the latter making a fine fingertip grab in traffic. Duffy also reeled off seven and six-yard runs and the payoff was a two-yard burst by Arsenault.

The touchdown was Arsenault's second of the young season, but the conversion failed when Duffy's pass to Perry went astray.

Lowell mounted one last threat in the closing minutes, riding a 31-yard scamper by Ferreira and several short runs by Ogden to a first down inside the Warriors' 10-yard line. The drive self-destructed, however, when Janes (2-for-7) fired a pair of incomplete passes in the endzone.

Wrap Up

Lowell managed statistical edges in virtually every major category, including first downs (16-6), yards rushing (280-136), yards passing (50-21) total yardage from scrimmage (330-157) and scrimmage plays (59-40).

Ferreira followed Ogden in the rushing parade with 94 yards in 16 carries.

Duffy paced the Golden Warriors' ground game with 49 yard in 10 lugs, Arsenault added 47 in eight carries and

Andover Skates To Tie

The Andover Squirt A hockey team played Northern Middlesex to a tie at Hockeytown in Saugus. Northern Middlesex got on the board first, but Andover quickly tied the game on a goal by Scott Munroe off an assist by Mike Lombard. Andover went ahead 2-1 in the second period on a quick wrist shot from the slot by Brian Flanagan, who was set up by Ryan Doyle. Northern Middlesex tied the game in the third period and then had to withstand a furious attack by Andover in the last minute to preserve the tie.

Outstanding defensive efforts were turned in by Richie Enos, John Broadbine and Adam Gurry. Fred Sunderland turned in a fine effort in goal

Andover Rolls Over Methuen

Andover won their first game of the season in a non-league match against Methuen High, upsetting them 8-1 last Thursday in Methuen. Senior Tri-Capt. Chris Sapuppo and junior Tom Ciolfi scored two goals each. Senior, Tri-Capt. Mike Hardock, Jim Spinelli, Rick Banzi and Steven Napolitano scored a goal each. Senior, John LeComte added his special touch to this victory by picking up three assists. The win makes the Warriors' record 1-2. Photos clockwise from upper left: All eyes on the net as Chris Sapuppo (left) puts in one of his goals. Girls' Soccer Takes Field

As the 1986 soccer season continues to advance, the Andover High School girls' soccer team continues to make great improvement in its skills and game performances. Even though their record stands at 3-2 after two weeks of play, hopes are flourishing for a successful season for Coach Dick Loschi.

Led by senior co-captains Cheryl Crawford, Denise Doran and Julie Boland, more than 60 girls turned out for preseason tryouts. Twenty-two players were chosen to represent the varsity team: seniors, Crawford, Doran, Boland, Kelly Ross, Eileen Murphy, Laurie Habeeb, Windy Carothers, Kerry Saunders, Justin Scarbeau; juniors, Karen DelSarto, Beth Howe, Micaela Corkery, Kim Heseltine, Sharon Petzold, Katie Pakos, Hallie Keene, Tanya Kachem, Anne Marie Charland; sophomores, Kerry Fitzpatrick, Allison Foster, Kathleen Radulski and Michelle Meli.

Andover hosted Lowell on opening day. After a sluggish start, Andover took charge in the second half, peppering the Lowell goalie with 22 shots. Ross, starting at forward for the first time, scored the hat trick and assisted on the fourth goal scored by Heseltine.

Two tests followed as Andover faced the defending Division 1 North champs, Winchester, and last year's runner-up, Concord Carlisle. On Friday night, during and after a torrential down pour, Andover battled against a more experienced and skilled Winchester team. Despite 18 saves by goalie DelSarto, Andover lost 2-0.

The girls battled Concord-Carlisle evenly in the first half until a controversial goal was scored by Concord. Andover dominated the second half of play, but could score only one goal by Heseltine while Concord also scored. The game ended 2-1 Concord. Fizpatrick, Foster and Petzold were immense on the attack.

Bouncing back was important after two tough defeats. Almost totally dominating the game, Andover pressured Billerica over the entire field. Ross scored her fourth of the season, assisted by Petzold, and Scarbeau scored her first goal with an assist to Kachem. The second half saw no scoring, but field control by Doran, Habeeb and Crawford. Andover won 2-0.

A tougher test followed with a game at Chelmsford. Two balanced teams battled for the first half to a scoreless tie. Andover had the better chances to score, but could not finish the plays off. Andover totally dominated the second half as their halfbacks and fullbacks stymied Chelmsford's attacks. Beautiful long shot goals were scored by Heseltine and Foster to help record the 2-0 win. Howe, Crawford, Boland and Corkery were outstanding.

The upcoming schedule has Andover playing at home for four of its next five contests, including night contests with Reading and Chelmsford and a Saturday morning game with North Andover.

The Andover Leopards toppled Italy 2-0 last weekend, the one bright spot in the Merrimack Valley League (Boys Division) results, as North Andover defeated all other Andover teams. Brief results of all games played appear below:

Under 16 Division

Andover Cobras 5 - Tewksbury 0

Andover Cobras 4 - Lowell 0

The Cobras began the season on a winning note with back-to-back victories over Tewksbury and Lowell. Bridget Murphy started the scoring in Tewksbury when she beat the keeper on a pass from Michelle DiStefano. Suzanne Gianelly, Murphy, Liz Hanson and Kathy Doran made it 5-0 with Jodi Sanders, Michelle Vetrano and Erin Lynch earning assists.

Gianelly and Sanders scored a goal apiece in the first half against Lowell to make it 2-0 at the midway mark; Lynch and Vetrano earned assists. Hanson upped the Cobras' advantage early in the second half (assist to Susan Goldstein) and Sanders closed out the scoring for a satisfying 4-0 victory. BOW: Brenna Cronin.

Under 14 Division

Andover Cheetahs 1

North Andover France 5

The Cheetahs made it 1-0 early in the contest when Richard Yost made a perfect crossing pass to Paul Lisiak. Lisiak dribbled the ball up field and then passed it forward to Robert E. Lee who beat the keeper on a shot to the far side of the net. North Andover kicked in the equalizer and subsequently added four more to win the hard-fought victory. BOW: Nathan Walker, Jason Twombly, Philip Birkby and Jeremy Roux.

Andover Leopards 2

North Andover Italy 0

Rob Brendle's tally midway through the first half following an excellent pass from Adam Pedicino gave the Leopards the lead. A's Off To Great Start

The Andover Hockey Association PeeWee A team, coached by Mark Guittarr and George Coburn, began its 1986-87 season in the Wilmington League two weeks ago. The team started out with two action-packed wins over Cambridge and North Andover.

In their first game, Andover dominated last season's league champion, Cambridge, with a score of 5-0. Single goals were scored by Bob Sheehan, Billy Owens, Joey Liguori, Sean Darwin and Darren Cianci. The defense, led by Todd Allard, Brenden Finneran, Mike Walsh and John Constantine, kept Cambridge in its own end most of the game.

Andover then defeated North Andover 2-1 last Saturday in a hard-fought contest. This was a closely checked game and very even throughout. Following a scramble in front of the net, Chris Pothier scored off a nice assist from Pete O'Shea putting Andover on top 1-0 in the first period. North Andover responded with a goal just before the end of the period. Andover went ahead to stay in the second period after Sheehan fed Owens from behind the net for the eventual game winner.

Andover Junior Football Results

Opening day of the 1986 season saw the Central Colts whitewash the defending champion Indian Ridge Raiders 26-0 and the Bancroft Dolphins shut out a tough West Andover Redskin club 12-0.

The Colts jumped on top with Jason Hastings scoring on a 25-yard sweep around left end. The other three Colt touchdowns were registered by halfback Brian Landry on runs of 45, 25 and 35 yard. Ten-year-old fullback Toby Guzowski accounted for the two P.A.T.s as he twice bulled his way into the end zone following Landry T.D.s. Other Colt players contributing to the victory were Jim Landry, Sean Baldwin, Dan Waitkevitch, Jessie Ciccone, John Zembruski, Matt Levine, Mike Torrissi and Ben Russell on offense and Craig Tetrault, Jay Stella and Duncan Harris on defense.

Playing well for the Raiders were Richie Radulski, Kan Mooney, Bryan Bradley, Robert Derba, Mike Sheppard and Matt Morello on offense and Steve Flaig, Kevin Lane, John Ciruso and Josh Adams on defense.

The Dolphin combination of quarterback Matt Harris to end Danny Feeley reslted in both touchdowns. Harris passed to Feeley in the first quarter for the first score, the play covering 49 yards, and Harris passed to Feeley again in the fourth quarter for a 30-yard touchdown. Other offensive standouts were Oliver Heath, Matt Daniels, Jason McCue, Todd Harris, Chris Long and Dan Haarman. Leading the defense were Todd and Paul Allard, Matt Lastrina and Brendan Finneran.

The Redskin attack was led by quarterback Sean Ryan with help from Dan Burn, Richard Deangelis, Herb Foster, Steven Kokinos and Ian Timmons while the defense was anchored by Garrett Ferris, Ryan Kelley, Sean Reilly, Andy Cohen and Josua Pakstis.

All Andover Junior football League players will be admitted free to this Friday night's high school game between the Golden Warriors and the Haverhill Hills at Andover's Lovely Field, starting at 7 p.m. The players must wear their game shirts and obtain a pass from their coach.

Performances

Fruitlands Museums in Harvard will present Vera Meyer of Cambridge in two performances on the glass harmonica at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the Hudson River Room of the Picture Gallery. This rare instrument was invented by Benjamin Franklin in the 18th century and enjoyed a wide popularity in Europe for many years. After more than a century of obscurity, a Waltham scientific glass blower saw an original in a Paris museum and tried creating a more modern version using the Franklin blueprints.

That glassblower, Gerhard Finkenbeiner, is the only one in the world who knows how to make these harmonicas which are actually a collection of glass bowls of various sizes fitted with cork in the center and mounted on a spindle. Electricity has replaced the foot pedal of Franklin's day to revolve the apparatus under the wet fingers of the artist.

Meyer is an accomplished artist on the glass harmonica. Her repertoire includes pieces originally composed by Mozart and Beethoven for glass instruments as well as other classical and popular music.

The Selectmen aren't accepting a "promise" by state Waterways Division head Rodolphe Bessette that he can "find" $50,000 to add to Rogers Brook construction funds. The director told Town Manager Thomas E. Duff, at a conference Monday, that he could "find" the funds, which could be added to the $175,000 in matching funds available from the state.

The Civil Defense Director's job is now more demanding than formerly, according to the town manager, because of the condition of world affairs.

President of the League of Women Voters in Andover, Mrs. Paul Crane, inviting the women of Andover to a luncheon, stated that "The League is strictly a non-partisan organization. It does not and cannot support any political party or candidate. Rather, its purpose is to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation in government."

While Monday's town meeting session in Memorial Auditorium of East Junior High may be devoid of controversy, it retains its importance. With the scheduled withdrawal of the establishment of an historic district in town, the agenda is absent of what appears to have been the most controversial item.

Andover residents will be receiving growth Policy questionnaires in the mail this week as an effort toward getting input from the citizenry with regard to the town's future.

Essex County Republicans are making plans for a kick-off rally at the Danvers State Armory. The event is being sponsored by the Danvers Republican Town Committee in honor of all Republican candidates for office in Essex County.

Shawsheen residents and local residents interested in the proposed conversion of the Sacred Heart school to apartment use will be afforded a tour of the work done by the Crowninshield Corp. in Peabody, where they have completed a project much like the one they plan here in Andover.

A request to move two houses up River Road—action that would require trimming, pruning, perhaps even felling a tree or two along the way—was rejected by the Selectmen Monday night.

One of the most infection-free places on the globe is the South Pole where temperatures fall to -100°F.

Andover Hockey Shop Puts You On Ice

When hockey began in Canada in the early 1850's it was a very different game than it is today. For one thing the action was considerably less rough, allowing players to skate with little protective equipment. But times have changed, hockey's changed, and the Andover Hockey Shop has all the clothing and equipment to keep up with the changes. They carry the top of the line skates, including Bauer Junior Supreme and CCM Super Tacks. Choose a Cooper helmet that will be adjusted if necessary by the staff to insure maximum protection. There are walls of sticks to choose from, gloves, pads, pucks, and all the clothing needed to put together a first rate hockey uniform. Andover Hockey Shop can outfit the littlest mite to the biggest professional. And they'll not only sell you the equipment, they'll service it too. Now is the time to dust off your skates and bring them in for repair or sharpening.

If the ice is a little too slippery for your taste, keep your feet on solid ground with Rollerblades. Rollerblades combine the best of ice skates and the best of rollerskates and are great on the street or at the roller rink. Andover Hockey Shop can put more than skates on your feet. They carry the latest in soccer shoes, running shoes and any other sport shoe including Nike and New Balance.They have equipment for a variety of sports for a variety of seasons. If organized sports aren't your thing, grab a skateboard and some pads and take to the streets.

If you're looking for a school bag, school jacket or gymsuit, you'll find them at Andover Hockey Shop. They have award jackets for all the high schools for all sports. And now, they even have the awards - they just began selling trophies for leagues or for individuals. So come in and see what Leo, Ruth and Sandy Gravell, owners and operators, have known all along ... Andover Hockey Shop has it all.

Andover Hockey Shop, Shawsheen Square, 475-7474. Open M, Tu, Th, & Fri 10-8,Wed 10-6, and Sat 9-5.

Software Acquires Firm

Software International Corp. of Andover (SI), a wholly owned subsidiary of General Electric Co., has taken a series of business actions designed to continue its strong growth in product sales to users of Digital Equipment Corp. computers. These actions include acquisition of a financial-software segment of Interactive Systems Inc, creation of a business unit dedicated to the Digital marketplace and increased research and development of Digital-compatible products. These actions come at a time when sales of SI's financial software products for Digital computers are running at roughly double the rate of 1985. This past spring, SI announced that it would bring its Masterpiece series of business applications, previously available only for IBM mainframes and the IBM System/38, to the Digital VAX computer line.

The acquisition of a financial-software segment of Interactive Systems Inc. (ISI), the Lowell-based Digital-software supplier best known for its SCOPE and MENTOR program products, transfers ownership of ISI-developed programs to SI. The programs form part of general-ledger accounts-payable, accounts-receivable, fixed-assets and payroll application-software packages. In conjunction with software programs developed and owned by SI, they make up the Masterpiece Series VAX software currently marketed by SI.

According to Jeffrey S. Goodman, president of SI, "Software International's move to acquire this portion of ISI's business is evidence of our major commitment to the Digital market. We began offering financial software for Digital computers eight years ago. Today, Digital itself is a user of Software International products, and Software International is a cooperative marketing partner of Digital."

In addition to program code, the ISI acquisition provides SI with product documentation, exclusive marketing rights and all existing customer contracts. As part of the acquisition, SI has employed a team of experienced staff members from ISI.

Family

strengthening the salability of the land and their own bargaining position in the eyes of the town, before the town bought the parcels. "They had from 1970 to 1986 to do what they wanted to do with the land," he said. "They didn't do it."

While he felt he had the obligation to protect the Boloians and ensure that they would receive full value for their land, Mahony said that he also had to "play fair" to the town. "They should pay the value, but not more than the value," he said.

For that reason, he added, he had hired two appraisors who were among the best available—and had advised them to give him the highest potential estimate. He had also invited the family to show him proof that the land is worth $360,000. "All I'm saying to them is, show me," he said. "I say this not in a facetious or arrogant sense; I want to see it."

According to Asoian, Mahony has seen the appraisal and knows its history; he simply does not accept it as legitimate in the present situation. "I've showed him the figure," he said. "He said it was based on all the parcels going."

Mahony contends that, during his tenure as town manager, the town of Andover has never taken land by eminent domain. The Boloian case, however, might see a courtroom. "I suspect that, if they feel it is $360,000 and we consider it so much less than that," he said, "and they feel it should go to the town ultimately, maybe we should let the courts decide."

Special Camera Club Presentation

On Thursday, Oct. 9, the Lawrence Camera Club will sponsor a slide presentation entitled "Nova Scotia Ceilidh!!" by Millie Matasso.

The production, which will be given on two slide projectors and accompanied by a stereo musical background, will be shown at 8 p.m. at the Congregational First Church, 26 Pleasant St., Methuen, and is open to the public. Admission may be paid at the door, or tickets may be bought in advance from Lawrence Camera Club members.

New Hong Kong Restaurant: A Harbor Of Taste Delights

When you first enter the New Hong Kong Restaurant, the first thing to catch your eye will be the lovely mural covering the wall of the main dining room. The mural depicts the Hong Kong area with sail boats floating lazily in the harbor, and a couple strolling by the shore. It is into this atmosphere of calm and serenity that Ping-Hing Ng and his wife Lily Ng invite you to come in and enjoy their food.

Ping-Hing and Lily wish to bring the finest Chinese, Szechuan and Polynesian foods to the public. The restaurant offers seven soups, including the "House Surprise" which is sure to be a taste delight. There's a long list of the usual appetizers, plus the unusual choice of Peking Dumplings.

The Szechuan specialties include Moo Shi style which represents a classic Mandarin dish prepared with meat, eggs, mushroom, cabbage, bamboo shoots and served with four pancakes to roll the Moo Shi. Choose from Moo Shi pork, beef, chicken, shrimp or vegetable. The most famous style of Szechuan cooking is Kung Po which consists of Szechuan peppers, hot red peppers, garlic, dark soy sauce, sugar vinegar and peanuts. The variety of tastes - sweet, sour, hot and salty must be experienced to be appreciated.

The Chef's Specialties present 17 delicious choices which will further complicate your lunch or dinner selection. Choose the exotic Hawaiian Duckling, or experience the multiple taste sensations of Eight Wonders Delight consisting of shrimp, lobster, roast pork, mushrooms, water chestnuts and garden vegetables on a bed of noodles.

New Hong Kong Restaurant is located at 235 Main St., Rte 28, N. Reading. They're open Mon-Th 11:30-10:00, Fri & Sat 11:30-12:00 midnight, Sundays and Holidays 12:00-10:00 p.m. Call 664-9908 for take-out.

VALUE OF HOME OWNERSHIP

If you ask me why you should buy a home, I can give you three sound reasons.

STABLE HOUSING COSTS. There is no sure way of telling how high rent will be in the future, but you can surely bet it will continue to rise. Depending upon the type of mortgage a homeowner selects, monthly payments can remain fixed or at least predictable - over the life of the loan.

EQUITY BUILDUP: Once rent money is spent, it's gone forever. However, each monthly mortgage payment reduces the amount owned on the loan while building up equity (dollar ownership) on the property.

INCREASED VALUE: Here's the big one. Most goods lose value with age and use. Home values, on the other hand, have a long history of increasing faster than the rate of inflation, that increase is on the entire amount of the value, including the mortgaged portion. On top of that, homeowners have the best tax breaks going and will continue to do so into the forseeable future.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 4 Punchard Ave., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

Schruender Real Estate

TITLE INSURANCE

Title insurance is like a life preserver on an airliner. You'll probably never need it, but if you ever do, you'll be glad it's there.

Before you buy a home, the settlement attorney will order a title search. This is to make sure that the sellers do legally own it, and that no other people have an interest in it. There's also a check through the ownership records for liens, easements, and other encumbrances. There are some interests in property, however, that may not appear on the public record. There could have been an unsound transfer that occurred decades ago, or a previous transaction. Title insurance protects you against future claims that someone else may still own your new home. Your settlement attorney or your Realtor can give you more specific information about the cost of title insurance and the coverage available in your area.

For professional advice on buying or selling a home, contact Realty USA Schruender R.E. Call us at 685-5000 or stop by our offices at 73 Chickering Road, in North Andover.

Industrial Arts Post Unfilled

By Karen L. Day

Assistant Superintendent Leslie Loomis informed the school committee Tuesday that it had not been possible to fill the open Industrial Arts position. He explained that students are being rescheduled to other practical arts classes that will allow them to obtain graduation credits since five courses have had to be cancelled for lack of an instructor.

Loomis commented that it may not be possible to continue the courses in the future for not only lack of a qualified instructor, but lack of interest. The courses, at least temporarily eliminated, include technical drawing, electricity, woodshop I and II, graphics and video production.

Committeeman Richard Neal expressed concern that it would no longer be possible for students '"to follow that path" in industrail arts. Loomis explained that he could not justify keeping the classes due to lack of interest. He commented that it may be possible to consolidate at the junior high level and have some instructors move over to the high school temporarily to keep the program alive.

Susan Poore, committee member, stated that the graphics, electricity, and technical drawing courses were also of interest to college bound students, and felt that they should be continued if at all possible.

According to Superintendent Kenneth Seifert, 20 percent of Andover students do not go on to college, but with the elimination of the industrial arts courses, "we really have a college preparatory school...we'd like to keep these going" but the number of interested students is quite low. He stated that there be an examination of the '"basic mission of the Andver School system, with emphasis on secondary schools," in order to address the needs of the 20 percent of students who do not go on to college.

Committee Chairman Michael Giammusso requested that the administration save as many courses as possible by transfering instructors from West Junior High. Poore then asked the administration to return with a proposal of how the problem can be dealt with in the long term.

In addition to voting in favor of the election of Mary French to the position of Pupil Personnel Administrator, the committee voted in favor of 24 appointments to extra-curricular postions and 16 appointments to winter coaching poitions. Two positions, Junior Varsity Hockey Coach and Girls Gymnastics Coach, have yet to be filled.

The school administration also presented student/teacher ratios to the committee, stating that they are the best in years. Assistant Superintendent Leslie Loomis said that ratios at the secondary school level are "hovering around 20 students per teacher" and that "these ratios create a real opportunity for us."

Committee member Susan Poore questioned Loomis about the ratios in science labs where there were, at one time, more students per class than there were lab stations. Both Loomis and Assistant High School Principal Steve Richardson agreed that "lab size is definitely in good shape."

Committeeman David Birnbach asked that he be allowed to make a presentation to the rest of the committee and the administration regarding the computer program at some point in the near future. He explained that the presentation would strictly be a discussion item. He also expressed concern that there is $75,000 in funding available for the computer program that is not part of the regular budget and must be used by the end of the year, or it will be lost.

Superintendent Seifert commented that Birnbach has made presentations to the Computer Advisory Committee in the past and that he was welcome to present any new information to them. Birnbach's presentation will be added to the agenda of the next scool committee meeting.

A seven-week program on "How to Market Your Product or Service' will begin Wednesday, Oct. 15, from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The course is designed to help anyone who has just started or is considering starting their own company develop an individual financial plan and marketing strategy.
